Rules Promulgated by Local Governments in Power Lists An Analysis Centering on the 82nd Term in The Legislation Law

Wang Taigao

Abstract: The core of the institution of power lists is the right choice of legal authorities, which, in turn, provides a premise and a basis for the institution. According to the 82nd term in The Legislation Law, local governments enact rules in two ways: executive legislation and creative legislation. Different principles are employed to take the two different modalities of government rules as the legal authorities of power lists. Therefore, only researching and inducing these basic principles with timely elimination of illegal authorities according to these principles can promote the sound development of the institution of power lists.
